Did you ever have an extra
key to your home

and not know where to put it, so that you can get in if you've locked yourself out, knowing that it has to be in a place that's not obvious to thieves, but not so hidden that even you can't find it?

If you've ever let the devil inside your home ...

through secular music and other various forms of entertainment like TV and movies that promote his world of lies ...

... then the devil has a key to your mind.

And he doesn't tend to “lose his keys”

like we do ...

unless we “change the locks,” so to speak,
by omitting from our lives everything that belongs to the dark side.

If you still have that one cherished CD
of old rock songs ...

you basically have “left the front door open.”

If you sometimes watch that one cherished sitcom, full of filth and immorality, you've "left open the back door too" ...

- a cherished sport
- a cherished indulgence
- the list goes on ...

(things you just aren't willing to let go of)

then “all the windows are open” in your home – your body
temple, your mind.

If you think you've barred the enemy from your soul, closing up all the windows, but still wish you could have the things of the world ...

you've basically “left a key under the proverbial mat” ...

saying to the hosts of darkness that they are “welcome guests” at any time they choose.

In order to live pure and holy lives, we must allow Christ to give us the strength to relinquish all that is of the enemy, or the devil will never lose his key.

Change the locks.

Bar him from your entire life.

Choose eternal life.

When evil comes to the door of your heart, hoping you still there reside, hoping to come inside, your only safety is if Jesus can say, “It is I who here abide.”

With that, the devil and all his demons will tremble, flee, and hide.

And be not conformed to this world:
but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind ... {Romans 12:2}

For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. {Romans 8:6}
